Eating out in Hurghada.

Hurghada, with its two tourist districts of Sekala and the Village Road, the local downtown area of El Dahar and a number of prestigious hotel chains, offers an incredible variety of dining experiences. Virtually all sorts of cuisines and styles are represented in town, from Indian to French, Japanese, Mexican, Italian, Dutch, Thai, Chinese, German and many more! From popular eateries belonging to international chains, such as Hard Rock Café, to fast foods as McDonalds, Pizza Hut and KFC, to local outlets serving Egyptian specialities, Hurghada has it all.

In El Dahar, the downtown area, the atmosphere is definitely "local". Here you will find a wide choice of authentic Egyptian eateries ranging from restaurants to street stalls serving local "fast food". Browse around the dozens alleys and pedestrian streets and find an endless array of restaurants and eateries with a strong local flavour.

Strolling along the commercial Sekala street or in the Village Road area, you will find famous international chains such as Hard Rock Café, McDonalds, Pizza Hut and KFC, and local trendy venues such as Papas Beach Bar, Liquid Lounge, or Tuscany at the Marriott, just to name a few. You will also find a wide array of small inexpensive places, and famous Cairo restaurant chains such as Felfela, with authentic excellent Egyptian food and great views of the sea and Giftun Island from its terraces.

Be aware that local restaurants seldom serve any alcohol. They serve though great tasty local food!

In Hurghada, the hotels' cuisine is in general quite good. Hotels normally have a main restaurant serving the boarding meals (breakfast and dinner, sometimes also lunch), and one or two a-la-carte restaurants to sample specialties or to celebrate that special occasion in an intimate atmosphere.

There are numerous places to eat in and around Hurghada and a restaurant can be found to suit every tastebud and requirements.
